

Forgotten

Forever lost, never forgotten, we will remember them,
Patient loving hearts remain at home eager to see them to the bone.
To the men that risked their poor innocent lives for us.

Forever lost, never forgotten, we will remember them.
Such innocence and now a loved one forever out of reach.
The sole of the soldiers still remain even though we will never see them again.
Millions of hearts broken we will never forget them
They will always be by our side.

Forever lost, never forgotten, We will remember them.

The chirping ringing sounds as battle foretold their destiny.
