WOMEN'S LAND ARMY

By 1917, the government realized the need to create the women's land army (WLA) and at the end of the year there were over 25,000 'Land Girls'. Although official records have been destroyed, it is estimated that over a quarter of a million women volunteered for agricultural work.

WOMEN'S LAND ARMY

By 1918, there were 20,000 Land Girls.

- They milked cows, ploughed, herded and even fished.
- In 1919 the WLA was disbanded as men returned home and imports resumed.
