Letter from Revd Helen

Dear friends,

I am writing this during lockdown, behind closed doors. Everywhere is eerily quiet. In these days after Easter I have been thinking about the disciples of Jesus and the events after Easter for them. The disciples too were in lockdown. They were shut in behind locked doors, fearful of what might happen to them in the aftermath of recent events in which they have seen Jesus crucified, dead and buried in a sealed, stone tomb. When Jesus died on the cross, life could not have looked any worse for his followers. It was all over, hopes dashed, lives changed forever – or so it seemed. Imagine then how they must have felt when the risen Jesus appears to them in their locked room. Jesus stands among them giving them solid proof that he is totally alive. He eats with them, he speaks to them - "Peace be with you" – and he shows them the wounds of his suffering.

In this time of uncertainty and distress we may well be asking if life will ever be quite the same for us again. But Jesus is alive today and that changes everything for us too. He entered that locked room because he knew what his followers needed for their hope to be restored. And He is with us in our lockdown. He understands what we are facing. He recognises our doubts and fears. And He gives us a solid hope. Friends, may you know God's presence and peace at this time. As the lockdown continues, and we do our bit to help save lives – each one so treasured, and so precious to God – may we continue to support and encourage one another, and may we put our hope in the Risen

Revd Helen, your Curate.

Jesus.

JULIAN MEETING FOR MAY 2020

What Jesus demands of his followers is a shift of focus: a new childlike vet mature innocence of perception that sees beneath the surface, a seeing that goes from without to within. "If your eye is sound", he tells them, your "whole body will be full of light." Those first disciples, who being closest to him had the best chance of achieving this kind of enlightenment, failed to do so when they looked at him. They saw further than the crowds or the religious authorities or Pilate. But as John looks back from the far side of Easter, he reveals that only after that final week that culminated in the Cross and in the extraordinary days that followed did they really begin to see who this man might be and what he was trying to show them. In his words: "The Word became flesh.....and we saw his glory....full of grace and truth." In the words of St Paul we can now encounter "the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ". And if you were to ask St John, "Where chiefly did you see that glory?" I think he would either have replied, "When he was hanging on the cross" or, more probably, "When he left the supper table, wrapped a towel about his waist, and began (despite our startled protests) to wash our dusty feet. For that stands the notion of glory - and the concept of God - on its head. It is to enter a foolish, topsy-turvy world, where the first are last and the last first, where value lies in being, not in achieving, where the just law of 'an eye for an eye' is countermanded by the radical action of forgiveness, and where greatness lies in the compassionate, often humdrum, service of others.

Yet what they saw in the end, what the professional persecutor-turned-missionary Paul saw after he had so dramatically regained his sight, what John saw once his eyes had been opened, was that they had to see beyond the figure of Jesus to God himself. When he said, "Whoever has seen me has seen the Father", the point Jesus is making is not about himself but about the Father. "You want to see the glory and the love of God - in so far as human eyes can do so?" asks John. "Then look on this man whom we have seen with our own eyes."

Yet it is not quite so simple. For it is one thing to have known Jesus, watched him, lived through the devastating final days of losing him, followed by the wonder of daring to say once again to each other "we have seen the Lord", knowing it could not be true, yet knowing that it was; it is one thing for them to see all that and to understand that the world would never be the same again; it is quite another for us to do so. Yet they didn't see, not at first. John writes of Jesus telling them that only when "the Spirit is given" will they fully understand the truth, and Paul was to write that "no one can say Jesus is Lord except under the influence of the Holy Spirit".

If I am to see God and the world, myself and my neighbour, as Jesus saw them I need to be open to his spirit. That is not as strange as it may seem. We are embodied spirits and we relate to each other both at a physical and a spiritual level; we influence deeply those we love and are as deeply influenced by those who love us. Those who were inspired by Jesus were so persuaded by his vision of what life might be, by what they had seen of his glory of living and dying, by what he had enabled them to see of God and by what he had shown them of the meaning of true personhood, that they wanted to live in his spirit. That had been God's desire from the beginning of time and the whole Bible leads to this point where through Christ eyes are finally opened.

Malpas Community Links Update No. 1

Introduction:

Malpas Community Links has set up an operation, through its Registered Volunteer Network and Resident Request schemes, which provides help for residents who are self-isolating, have underlying health problems or just live alone.

Following on from our initial information leaflet, the response from the local community has been exceptional, with some 90 volunteers now formally registered with us, some of whom are already actively supporting our local shops by undertaking deliveries. It is particularly encouraging to see that many of our residents who are new to the village have signed up. This demonstrates a real desire to become part of our strong community.

With an initial resource of only 4 people, it would have been impossible for Community Links to cover the whole community on its own, so we have determined our strategic approach should be at 3 different levels that will underpin the principle of trying to maintain a strong community bond and some form of social contact, whilst managing risk through reducing village travel and personal physical interactions.

Levels of engagement:

1/ Whilst being mindful of their own safety, we would ask residents to look out and help service the needs of their near neighbours in their own street/local area.

2/ We would ask the officials of local clubs, societies, organisations and companies on a regular basis, to call their members/employees to see if they ok and not in need of any help. E.g. Ian Davenport, our Rector, has pledged to contact everyone on St Oswald's Church electoral role every 1-2 weeks.

3/ Individual residents not covered by any of the above actions, who require assistance are able to contact us via our published Community Links numbers or e-mail address.

Once residents in need are registered with us, our volunteers will be able to help with shopping or prescription deliveries or even just a phone call for a chat.

Safety of the individual resident and our "registered" volunteers is the key priority, so we have produced a set of guidelines for our volunteers to work to.

Shopping:

Thanks must be extended to the owners and staff in our local shops, who are carrying out a key role in keeping our community supplied. All our shops and their staff are coping admirably at present, but they are under extreme pressure, so please be patient, and respect their rules if you need something from them.

Following our suggestions, Nisa have changed their working practices and are now taking orders and payment over the telephone. Huxleys Country Store, and Malpas Farm Shop also have this facility, but if you are ordering over the telephone, try to give all the shop as much notice as you can.

In line with Government guidelines and laws, to reduce the risk to yourselves, the shop staff and other residents we would ask everyone to keep visits to a minimum. Make a list of all the essential and non-essential items you need before you go in.

Malpas Surgery and the Chemist:

Our biggest issue in the village at present, is the pressure on our local surgery and our chemist.

With some 7,300 patients on their lists, and a number of staff shortages, they are really struggling to cope with the increased demand.

Community Links is working with the Surgery and the Chemist on a delivery scheme which is being managed by our co-ordinators. When you order a repeat prescription or medication you will be directed to call one of the co-ordinators to arrange for your delivery.

Governance:

The Community Links core team are holding regular conference call updates; this to understand how the initiatives and rules being passed down from Government, the Borough Council and Charitable Organisations are being rolled out across the county and what this means in practice for our local area.

We are then amending our operations to respond quickly to the changing daily situation.

Finally we are aware that there are some confirmed cases of the Covid 19 virus in the Malpas Ward, so we would urge everyone to follow the Government Laws and stay at home.

Keep strong, work together and we will come through this.

Chris Whitehurst, Cathy Reynolds, Rachel Williams, John Webb, Rachael Reeves, Jemima Ockleston, Jane Chewins, Deborah Brereton.

MESSAGE from MALPAS PARISH COUNCIL

The Council reminds everyone to follow government advice during the real threat that the coronavirus pandemic brings to our community.

Please speak to neighbours that you know (and who know you) to see if they would like help now or in the future should they be unable to help themselves.

The Parish Council supports the great work that is being done by Malpas Community Links to keep people safe during this crisis.

Malpas Parish Council also encourages local clubs and organisations to contact their members to check, regularly if possible, should they need any assistance.

In line with avoiding public gatherings, the Parish Council meeting scheduled for 7:00pm on Monday 20th April has been cancelled. However, new legislation allows us to hold virtual meetings to which all parishioners can join and listen to. A public notice will be posted on the Parish Noticeboard and on Malpas Cheshire On-line web site with details of how to join the meeting.

Please contact the Clerk via email, malpaspc@hotmail.com, to register to join the meeting. Stay safe and best wishes!

How to Build a Bee Hotel in your garden.

Did you know that most bees have no Queen, don't produce honey or live in colonies or hives? This type of bee is a solitary bee. There are over 250 different species of solitary bees in the UK including leafcutter bees, mining bees and mason bees – naming only a few! Each species of bee use different plants to create their nests. Leafcutter bees cut circles from leaves to line their nests, favouring plants such as rose, beech and wisteria; mason bees will use mud, clay or chewed up plant tissue; and the wool carder bee will collect hairs from plants such as lamb's ear to construct her nest.

To help support populations of solitary bees in your garden you can create your own bee hotel where you can watch the life cycle of these fascinating creatures. It truly is an amazing thing to see a little bee carrying materials to make a nest all by herself.

FOLLOW THESE INSTRUCTIONS TO BUILD YOUR OWN BEE HOTEL AND ENJOY WATCHING THEIR LIFECYCLE:

You will need:

- · Power drill with multiple drill bits ranging from 2mm to 12mm
- · A block of untreated wood, any height, but minimum 15cm deep (Make sure if using a piece of log that there are no splits or cracks)
- · 1 or 2 thin pieces of wood or alternative to use as a roof
- Sandpaper

Instructions:

- 1. Drill holes to around 10cm deep using different diameter drill bits into your block of wood, making sure not to go all the way through to the other side. Keep the holes far enough apart so that the wood between them will not split (2cm should be fine).
- 2. Sand down the entrance to the holes as sharp splinters can damage their wings on entry.
- 3. Use the other piece(s) of wood to create a roof, ensuring it allows water to roll down the sides and not into the hotel.
- 4. Fix your hotel at least a metre off the ground on a warm wall (south or south-east facing) and wait for your guests to arrive.

CATH UPDATE

About a month ago the Government asked each Local Authority to ensure all homeless people in their area were housed. Chester and Cheshire West Council reacted quickly and people on the streets were accommodated in a local hotel and provided with all meals. CATH, of course, already accommodates some thirty people in seven houses, who would otherwise be on the streets. As a consequence of the Governments initiative and the impossibility of CATH's volunteers working several feet apart in a small kitchen, the drop in Centre was closed and staff are concentrating on looking after clients in their houses. Even though the drop in Centre is closed it is being used as a hub, under controlled conditions, for various agencies, such as the food bank and the police, so it is still serving a useful purpose.

Obviously, homelessness hasn't gone away and present arrangements are only temporary for however long the current scenario prevails. CATH are reviewing their future contingency plans and it is not going to be easy to deal with the homeless when the lockdown is eased, as a hotel is clearly more attractive than a street or shop doorway.

We are all 'staying at home' so our normal food collection service has had to be postponed but, fortunately, the public are proving to be very generous with their donations to CATH.
