Malpas Vintage Machinery Association Limited
(Founded 1971)

Welcome to our 50th Malpas Yesteryear Rally.

It gives me great pleasure to welcome you to this year's rally.

We have gone out of our way to try and please all of you who join us for the weekend.

The rally will be in the same format as previous years.

We will be running two rings as per usual but please listen out for any announcements as things can change from time to time.

We have tried to get as many of the exhibits that were at the first rally to join us again and it will be a pleasure to meet them and have a chat. After all, without them we wouldn't be here today.

The tractor section is as big as ever and have a walk down to the working area. It is going from strength to strength.

Look out for the new entertainment for the kids, I believe we have got a Punch and Judy stall joining us this year which I for one will be taking the grandchildren to have a look at. That's if I can get them away from their iPads.

As I say each year have a great weekend but please be careful. The fencing around the site is for your safety so please don't abuse it. We have lots of moving machinery on site and the last thing we want is for somebody to get hurt.

It's time to thank everybody who helps to make the rally what it is today. The exhibitors come from far and wide to join us for the weekend and without them there wouldn't be a rally.

Thanks also to the committee members that we have got. We are very short handed, and they have to work long and hard to try and get things the way that we want.

Thanks, must also go to Paul Corbett who has gone out of his way to upgrade the rally site for us.

We must also thank the helpers who come and help us put up the rally equipment; it's a thankless task and we should all go out of our way to make sure they know that they are appreciated.

I look forward to seeing you all again next year on 12th & 13th September 2026. Stay safe.

- 1 1929 Fowler B6 Crane Engine 17212 "Wolverhampton Wanderer". Registration RF 6092. Built in for John Thompson boiler works in Ettingshall, Wolverhampton. The engine was specified on the build sheet as a 10NHP with craning gear, lights and an unusual copper firebox. Working its entire commercial life with Thompsons delivering boilers around the country. Its last commercial job consisting of lifting and hauling 10 new boilers, which were delivered to Bristol. Due to the nature of moving heavy loads, often being moved at early morning or late evening, Wolverhampton Wanderer developed its own mythical legend in Wolverhampton, with tales of huge loads being moved during the night, but the engine very rarely seen during the day. Purchased by the late Len and Jane Crane, who rallied the engine extensively around the UK and Europe with heavy haulage demonstrations. Owned by the Crane Family.

Employed by Bishop Brothers of Burley on timber work, Fermoy was stripped of her showman's fittings and worked as a Road Locomotive, whilst also being employed on threshing duties during WW2. After a series of owners, Fermoy was to pass through the hands of Dick Woolley of Bucknell, Shropshire in 1950 and he was seen to have been the first owner in preservation. Acquired by Ken Miles of Dorchester, Fermoy was to return to her original form as a showman's engine. Fermoy was sold to Russell Cooke of Bridgnorth whom continued to rally Fermoy until its last steaming in 2014 when Fermoy was well worn out. Organs

- 51 40 Key Dutch Street organ, De Komeet System Limonaire Scale. Built in Alkmaar, Holland by organ builder Theo Gravendael. Purchased by the current owner in 2020. Owned by Ian Bishop, Craven Arms.

52 89 Key Whitehead Fair Organ

Built in the 80's by Andrew Whitehead of Stratford-upon-Avon based on a large spec. Marengi built in 1910 playing from the Violin-Baryton' scale developed by Charles Marengi. Façade built and decorated by Piet Smiesing of Holland in the style of Limonaire and other Parisian organ builders.

The organ was commissioned by Adrian Hutt of Haddenham, Cambridgeshire, who had a purpose-built building for the organ.

Until its recent change of ownership, the organ had never played outdoors or had been seen in public.

The organ plays from folded cards on which the music is punched into. The music is arranged like how it would be played by an orchestra or brass band. Having different registers, ranks and stops of different pipes gives the music variation and differences in tonal colour. The largest pipes are the 16' bass trombones and the smallest being the piccolo pipes with a speaking length of only a couple of centimetres. Owned by Ben Kellett, Malpas.

Organs like this were never stand-alone units as mostly seen today but were used by Showmen on the fairgrounds. An organ of this size would often be found in Scenic Railway rides or large Gallopers. Work to the organs mechanical action and pipe voicing is ongoing.

Ben Kellett's Whitehead fairground organ seen at the Malpas VE80 Celebrations.

Motorcycles

The post-World War 2 motorcycle industry took quite a long time to recover from the hostilities. Shortages of raw materials and government legislation not to allow any new models did nothing to assist in kickstarting the industry.

The main source of motorcycles after peace returned were the de-mobbed motorcycles from the military stockpiles now sold off to the transport hungry public.

Motorcycles such as the B.S.A. M20 and the Norton 16H were reconditioned and repainted ex-service to provide a stop gap until the industry in two or three years started to produce new models,

Probably the most successful of these was the BSA Bantam, brought out in 1948. This motorcycle was based on a design from the German firm of DKW who had to relinquish the concept due to war reparations. The Bantam ran from 1948 through various upgrades through to 1971, a definite success story.

As the 1940's turned into the 1950's things still looked good, however. The British industry was booming, with exports at record levels. British bikes were winning races and setting records, with machines such as the exclusive Vincent twins setting the standard by which all others were judged.

In the 1950's motorcycles were still everyday transport, for prosperity had still not improved and lightweight motorcycles were providing commuters with a ride to work, while sidecars were still commonplace family vehicles. But all this was changing and at a pace that was too fast for most of the British industry to perceive

HORSES

Public safety is a concern of the Rally organisers as horses can be unpredictable. They can kick, bite and move suddenly.

Please take care and observe the safety precautions in place and instructions by stewards and handlers, especially when horses are moving to and from the Arena.

The owners/exhibitors love to pass on their enthusiasm for these wonderful animals, so please talk to them and ask questions.

Although the horses love being stroked and generally made a fuss of, please check with the owners first and please do not feed the horses.

Malpas Yesteryear Rally, a brief history

Hampton Hall (1972 – 1976)

The Malpas Vintage Machinery Association was born from an idea by local residents Rob Randles and Bill Evans early in 1971. The first gathering of likeminded local enthusiasts took place later that year at Hampton Hall.

In the spring of 1972, an advert was placed in the Whitchurch Herald and the Chester Chronicle inviting vintage enthusiasts to take their vintage tractors, barn engines and machinery along to an event.

The first public rally took place at Hampton on the east side of the A41 trunk road on Sunday 17th September 1972. It was attended by 8 vintage tractors and 5 barn engines.

The very first Yesteryear Rally Poster.

The Silver Jubilee Rally at Cholmondeley Castle

The rallies were held at Hampton up until 1976.

1976 was a drought year with no rain in the Malpas area between the end of March and 16th September, two days before the rally was scheduled to take place.

During the site setup on the weekend before the event, it was almost impossible to get the main ring fencing stakes into ground, which was baked hard.

On the Saturday morning after 3 full days and nights of heavy rain the stakes were falling over.

Needless to say, the event was a wash out with very few paying public attending the event. This left the Association in severe financial difficulties and on the verge closing down forever.

Cholmondeley Castle (1977 – 1978)

Given the problems and issues with the Hampton site, a new venue was sought, and treasurer David Johnson with his farming connections managed to secure the Cholmondeley Castle parkland for the 1977 event.

A new committee of just David Johnson, Hubert Willet, Les Evanson and myself was formed. I was elected as Secretary and Yesteryear Event Director, with Hubert and Les being joint chairmen.

At the 1977 event, the introduction of market stalls and exhibitors dressed in period costume coupled with the attractive venue helped to boost public attendance.

Two very successful years were held with an annual public attendance of approximately 20,000 was instrumental in putting put the association back on a sound financial footing.

Gredington Park at Hanmer (1979 – 1988)

However, problems in 1979 with poor communications through the estate office staff resulted in the loss of that venue. So, the 1979 rally moved to Gredington Park, Hanmer, where it resided for the next 9 years

This was a brave move on the committee's behalf because on a pre-event visit it was almost impossible to walk across the park due to the wet nature of the ground. This must have been the association's sustainability destiny, as the first year and each subsequent year, the site provided dry and firm ground conditions.

The rally continued to thrive and grow at Gredington, apart from one hiccup with the Lords Day Preservation Society when an individual threatened to take the organisers and the landowner to court for charging a personal entry fee on a Sunday.

The irony was that the landowner was already a Justice of the Peace and was revelling in the prospect of having to stand in the dock in front of one of his fellow magistrates.

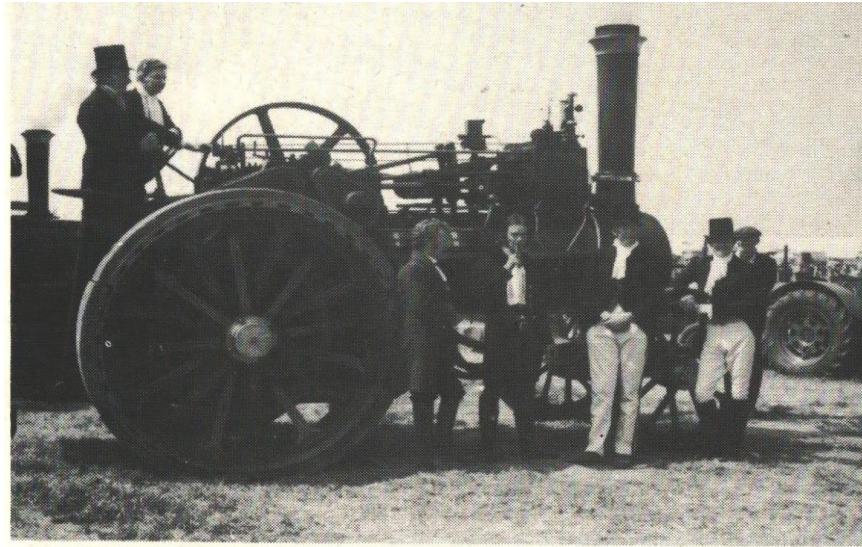

However, after taking legal advice, the committee voted to carry on with the event and employ a legal option, which was to charge for car parking, and ask pedestrians for a donation.

This did give the police some aggravation as people were parking on the roadside and looking to walk into the site for free.

The rally returned to its roots at Hampton in 1989 where it has continued to thrive since, allowing us to celebrate our 50th Year.

Can you help?

The logistics of such a large event are challenging, and like most clubs, finding volunteers is becoming a problem.

We need younger members and fresh ideas to help sustain the Yesteryear rallies for the foreseeable future. If you have enjoyed what you have seen here and would like to be involved in the organisation, then contact us.

My Shed

Quite often, I have heard it said
That every man should have a Shed.
Well, I've got one, and it is right,
it helps to make a dull day bright.

Through Cobwebbed window, I am able to watch the birds on the bird table.
I watch them, but they can't see me,
they really are a joy to see.

I keep a tin of old bent nails.
A fork, a spade, some broken scales,
an old bike with the tyres both flat,
my "wellies" and a gardening hat.

Half tins of paint I'll never use,
some three pin plugs that have no screws.
A pair of wheels from off a pram,
a wireless for the light programme.

A pile of plant pots, full of cracks,
a spoke shave and a fireman's axe.
Some tiles, not used in the bathroom, a rusty shovel and a broom.

My garden chair is old and worn,
but sometimes, in the early morn,
I smoke my pipe, as I sit there,
In my shed, I didn't have a care.

And, so it's right, it must be said,
I wouldn't be without my shed:
A haven of peace, and I must say,
Ther I'm king of all I survey.
